

Project: Green Sanctuary Sunday

Category: Worship and Celebration

Coordinator: Claudia McNeil

On January 20, 2008, University Unitarian Church held "Green Sanctuary Sunday". This Sunday recognized Green Sanctuary activities to date, and kicked off several months of more extensive Green Sanctuary projects. The service emphasized the Seventh Principal of the interdependent web of existence, and greater congregational involvement in Green Sanctuary activities. The order of service included an insert asking for feedback. Minister Jon Luopa preached his sermon on "Green Hope". Since the service was held on the third Sunday of the month, which is Children's Sunday each month, the service involved children's activities. Claudia McNeil invited children to the altar for a story called "The Edible Fabric of Rohner Mill" about a factory that changed from toxic chemicals to organic substances to manufacture cloth. UU's Intergenerational Choir contributed earth-centered music to the service such as Tom Chapin's "This Pretty Planet".
